EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Ohio Election.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—There is still intense ex[illegible] over the election news. Much figuring is being done. The Democrats do not expect to [illegible] Hayes' majority, but claim it will be very small. Republicans figure very close, but still rely on several thousand majority.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—After very carefully figuring, A. T. Wikoff, chairman of the Republican state committee, states that 44 counties now reported give 10,937 majority for Hayes. The 20 counties not heard from gave a Democratic majority of [illegible] in '73. The Democrats here claim a gain of [illegible] in 18 of these counties, and the Republicans a gain of [illegible] in 4 of them. This would leave a net majority of 4,301 for Hayes. The Democrats concede the state to the Republicans by 4,000.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—The following is [illegible] official: [illegible] Average from seventy five [illegible] at the [illegible] a Republican gain of 4000. The remaining thirteen counties yet to hear from are such as [illegible] the more doubt has been [illegible].

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—No more considered reliable [illegible] by the Republican state [illegible] from 85 counties, show a majority of 1463 for Hayes. The counties of Wood, Carroll and Delaware yet to be heard from. [illegible] Republican [illegible] The Democrats concede the house of [illegible] to the Republicans by a good majority, but claim that the election of one senator in the Toledo district gives them the senate by one majority.

The New York Press on the Elections.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Tribune says the lesson of the Ohio election is a curt, sharp and decisive contradiction of the libel upon the people that men never oppose political parties that put a dollar in their pocket [illegible] how crooked or dishonest. The World thinks the Ohio result makes Governor Hayes the [illegible] Republican presidential candidate.

The Times [illegible] out that Republicans cannot rest here, but must work vigorously if they will achieve [illegible].

MERIDIAN, Oct. 14.—A committee composed equally of white and colored citizens of Corinth [illegible] have issued a circular invoking the aid of all good citizens of the country in behalf of peace and to protect private property of people from the incendiary's torch. It charges colored [illegible] with having sought to arouse the [illegible] acts by declaring to them in harangues, that while the gin houses are the property of the whites the torch is the remedy [illegible] in the hands of the colored men. It appears that Colonel Stovall's steam gin house was burned by incendiaries a few weeks ago. On the night of the 10th inst. his stable and thirteen mules were burned, and an attempt made to burn his dwelling. The circular [illegible] all well disposed citizens to organize for common [illegible] against incendiaries, and nightly patrol [illegible]. The surveyor says the revenue cutter did not take any person or any article [illegible] from the steamer and no baggage left [illegible] by any other vessel. OSTRICH FARMING.

The London Globe says: "The experiment of farming ostriches for the purpose of securing a regular and abundant supply of their valuable feathers is a novelty in industrial operations, but is nevertheless reported to be a success. The experiment is being tried in South Africa, in the vicinity of the Cape of Good Hope, where the ostrich is native to the place and to the manner born, and where land of the right sort can be obtained to any extent. The recent files of Cape papers contained an interesting account of a visit by a correspondent of the Eastern Province Herald to the flourishing ostrich farm of Messrs. Heugh and Meinjes at the foot of the mountains. A large extent of suitable bush land is fenced in, over which the birds roam peaceably enough in ordinary times, but in the breeding season [illegible] in one of the several small camps laid out for the purpose. The birds are very fierce and savage at this period, but at all other times are as tame as a flock of sheep. They assemble to be fed at bugle call, though the feeders have to be careful of any loose articles there may be about, for the ostriches snap up and swallow immediately any such trifles as tobacco, pipes, knives, spoons, coins, &c., and make attempts to wrench off buttons from boots and clothing, and are not particular as to watches and chains if they can secure them. The plucking of birds is a dangerous operation. They are enticed by the bugle call into a small inclosure, where they are packed as closely as possible to prevent them from administering those terrible kicks to the plucker of which they are capable, and which are delivered with a force sufficient to break a man's thigh. The plumage of the famed ostrich is stated to be abundant in quantity and superior in quality, and the yield from a well stocked and carefully tended farm returns a large profit on the whole outlay. Several farms have already been established and more are being laid out, and this new branch of industry seems to be in a most flourishing condition and promises great expansion."

In an editorial resume of the state of affairs in Eastern Europe the Pennsylvania Monthly says:

The rule of the Turks over the Christians of the Levant has long been synonymous with cruelty, rapacity and intolerance. The worst forms of oppression and injuries daily added to insults, have been the experience of Christians for generations. A slavery of the most degrading kind has been their portion from father to son, and every attempt to secure their freedom has been crushed in bloodshed. And so for more than a century the slaves, a handsome, brave, intelligent people, with a singular talent for poetry and music, and a passion for liberty, have stood bound at the very portals of Christian Europe, where the rattling of the chains could be distinctly heard within. Nor can it be doubted that the formation of a Servian Kingdom would be a great gain not only for the slaves, but also for the cause of civilization. The Turkish power has outlived its raison d'etre. It is an anachronism and, to use a newly coined word, an unatopism too. It is a sluggish, inert barrier in the way of progress—a thorny obstacle in the path of civilization. Its power cannot be upheld by any plea of justice or right, and it has long forfeited its claim to exist. On the other hand a Christian power built up of Servia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia, Montenegro and the Slavic inhabitants of Albania, Roumelia and Bulgaria, would give an opportunity for the improvement of those countries, and for the development, intellectual and moral, of an interesting and highly organized people whose faith is Christian, whose spirit is free, and all of whose yearnings are in the direction of better things.

Hon. Lewis D. Campbell of Ohio, once a Republican leader in congress, is doubtless an incorrigibly malicious fellow, or he never would have made the remarks which he is reported to have made concerning the President's [illegible] at Des Moines. Malice must have [illegible] permeated the whole man, as it were, before he could say:

If any Republican will find a Democratic candidate in Ohio for any office from [illegible] down to [illegible] who will openly avow himself in favor of dividing the school fund, I will [illegible] President Grant a present. I have no money, but on my grange on the Miami I have a herd of fine fast-trotting [illegible] their tails so full of burs that they stick out like hand spikes. Grant and I were born in adjoining counties, and are alike in one respect—we both like fine fast trotting horses. If [illegible] present I will send on the discovery of a Democratic candidate in favor of dividing the school fund I shall [illegible] my best [illegible] trotting colt. I won't be as mean as that fellow was who sent him the bull pup. I will pay the express charges.

Two women have started a barber shop in Titusville. We saw one woman start a barber shop in a [illegible]. She came in with a cowhide in her hand and said she was going to horsewhip the man who had been talking about her, and eight men with lather on their faces rushed out of the chairs as I started for the back door on a run.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

STATE FAIR.

Fourth Day.

THURSDAY, Oct. 14, 1875.

Still the crowd is augmenting and it was estimated by gentlemen who have attended the fair ever since its organization to be at least twelve thousand. The pavilion was so thronged that it was impossible for the different committees to perform their duties with anything like accuracy until the rooms were cleared, when they worked most manfully, and probably will to-day succeed in completing the greater portion of their thankless labors. With the shouting of hack drivers, rattle of sewing machines near at hand, and the whiz of a one horse steam engine at the other door, while a high toned piano is kept constantly going, mingled with the droning sound of a melodeon and the grinding of the swaying, surging and pushing crowd as they constantly pour in at one side and pass out at the other of the capacious doors, your humble reporter has most too much of a public position to compose his naturally serene thoughts. But I will say that the OREGONIAN Headquarters has been turned into an information office in spite of ourselves, as the throng naturally think that we know everything and can tell everybody where they can find everybody, but we have fun along with our toil.

The announcement of the race of Oregon bred horses has caused a great many to come upon the ground this morning, and when it was announced that there were twelve cars filled with people coming from Portland, a great many—yea thousands—went to the depot to witness the arrival, and they were heartily cheered. While I was going out I met an individual who excitedly told me that he had heard that a

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Had happened to the train as it was coming up and four persons had been killed and the physicians of Salem had been sent for. My informant rushed on to the ground spreading his ill-fated news, and your informant rushed to the depot, where fortunately we found Mr. J. L. Moores, and just as I was going to ask him about the accident, he commenced telling another gentleman from your city of the origin of the false rumor, which is as follows: A couple of young men suggested to Mr. M. that it would be a good joke to start the rumor, as stated above, and cause an excitement, but was met with an indignant protest, and some one who was standing near heard the portion that stated that four had been killed, and about the sending for the physicians, and immediately started off to tell it to others, but the welcome sound of the locomotive whistle dispelled the mischievous rumor before it was generally spread, and consequently saved great uneasiness, but it is to be hoped that such painful rumors will not be started again.

SHEEP AND GOATS

The display of this line of stock is double that of any previous year, and the improvement in the domestic raised is encouraging and gratifying in all respects, especially in the merino, as well as the display of those imported from California and other states.

Messrs. Landrum and Rodgers, who have had Angora goats at the last three annual State Fairs, have now on exhibition seventeen head of pure breed which are attracting universal attention, and among them is one animal that originally came from Asia. Mr. Landrum arrived with fourteen hundred head of goats, and has bargained for the delivery next Saturday of about seven hundred of his graded goats. Mr. J. J. Shaw, a gentleman who lives in Salem, has invested in goats and has three of his flock in the pen alongside of Landrum & Co.'s. They are May kids, are beautiful animals. A [illegible] animal could not be told from a thoroughbred. Mr. Chas. Claggett contracted the Angora fever some two years ago, and as he humorously remarked that he was getting no better fast, and is one of the most enthusiastic men in the state on that subject, and uses them to assist in clearing up land, and they have more than paid for themselves. Mr. C. paid for one of his ewes $175 and considers it a reasonable price when a kid. Last year she sheared 6¾ pounds.

Mr. John M. Pugh has on exhibition eight head, which are graded, but to a novice could not be distinguished from those that claim to be thoroughbred.

Mr. I. P. W. Quimby of Portland has on exhibition ten head of Merino bucks that have lately been brought up from California. Four of them are descendants of Big Leg, three of Silver Horn and three from Fremont. These three celebrated bucks, I am told, are considered to be the purest and best bucks known, especially Big Leg, but be that as it may they certainly are fine animals, and will be taken to Mr. Quimby's farm for the purpose of improving his own stock.

Messrs. Severance & Peel, of Merino ranch, Alameda county, California, have 30 head of their flock of 600, and have brought them to supply the rapidly growing demand for this most important stock.

Mr. John Minto has quite a number of his flock on the ground, and as usual, has been awarded a number of premiums, and as he is one of the most expert sheep men in the state, his stock is worthy of the blue ribbon.

Mr. Thomas Davidson, who is a gentleman that has been in the sheep business for several years, has a choice herd.

There were quite a number of pens upon which there were no cards, and we could not ascertain who they belong to, and as the owners were absent, were compelled to pass along. A young gentleman by the name of Naylor had a good collection but was absent.

Mr. S. G. Reed has several pens of Leicester and other long wooled sheep, and a crowd who were standing around were animatedly discussing the question of "long wool vs short wool," but not being called upon as umpire we did not tarry to decide this delicate and scientific question, but probably considerable information was imparted in the meanwhile.

THE RACE

The following were the horses entered as Oregon raised horses: Dan Young named Bill Bigham; J. I. Miller, Ryestraw; C. H. Perkins, Norway; Wm. Gird, Bill Gird.

At the appointed hour the immense throng began to gather at the racecourse and punctual to the minute the horses came on the field, and after the preliminary arrangements were made the judges called the horses, which were assigned the following positions: Ryestraw first, Bill Gird second, Norway third, and Bill Bigham outside.

First Heat—In the start Bingham was a little ahead, but was well contested, and they kept well together, but in the last quarter Bill Gird rapidly came up and passed the pole a length ahead. Time 1:53. Bill Gird 1, Norway 2, Bill Bigham 3, Ryestraw 4.

Second Heat—At the appointed time the marshals began to clear the track and we noticed one of them running a small boy, while another was after a dog, which caused the crowd to shout and raise such an uproar that the excited marshals' voices could not be heard. The horses got off in fine style and all were put to their mettle, and at the poles they stood as follows: Ryestraw 1, Bill Gird 2, Bill Bigham 3, Norway 4. Time 1:52¾.

Third Heat—The horses started even but Norway showed fatigue and rapidly fell behind and in the outcome was more than distanced; he worked most manfully but was unable to reach the goal before the flag dropped. Bill Bigham 1, Ryestraw 2, Bill Gird 3, Norway distanced.

Fourth heat—The race was now reduced to three horses and the excitement became intense. The thousands of ladies that occupied the two grand stands rose to their feet and evinced their intense feeling on the result by the waving of handkerchiefs. Every quarter post was watched with intense interest and the time proclaimed, but there was not much time to discuss the subject, for the riders urged their horses most cruelly. But it was evident the horse Bill Gird was going to be distanced, and such was the result, for the horses came under the pole in the following order: Ryestraw first, Bill Bigham second, Bill Gird distanced. Time 1:53.

Fifth heat—Two horses now only remained to contest for the honor of the turf and the choice of horses was evenly divided, as they were evidently unknown, but they came upon the field all right, got a good order and away they spun around the field; was a caution to scrub horses, but Rye Straw came in a neck ahead, which decided the race. Rye Straw first, Bigham second. Time—1:54¾.

EMBROIDERY, BEADWORK, KNITTING.

In the class of embroidery we find that Mrs. J. Warinner, Mrs. J. L. Wortley, Mrs. L. M. Waltz, Mrs. M. Albrecht and Miss M. H. McMurray have made the largest entries.

An infant's skirt and shawl, silk embroidery by Mrs. J. DeVore Johnson, displays true artistic skill in the use of the needle. And again we find Mrs. J.'s name upon two beautifully braided suits for children. The desire to use the all powerful ballot does not prevent Mrs. Johnson from using the needle with great art.

Mexican embroidery, which proves to be the old fashioned but ever pretty hemstitching, is probably best represented by work done by Mrs. Almira Robinson, of East Portland.

A stand cover, by Mrs. Albrecht, in lace embroidery is an elegant affair.

In transferred work upon lace Mrs. L. F. Wortley carries off the palm. Mrs. J. Condit, however, has some of the same work that is fine.

Mrs. Thomas Cann has one of the handsomest articles on this side of the pavilion, a chair embroidered with worsted, and so perfectly has she imitated nature that many are deceived and wonder why the bouquets are not placed among the other flowers.

Heading the list of beautiful articles in the class of braiding, at least judging by the many admiring adjectives uttered by every lady who passes, is an opera cloak, white merino braided in blue and lined with quilted blue silk. The work was done by Mrs. J. Erb.

A braided stand cover by Mrs. H. D. Boone is well done.

There are more articles worthy of mention, but time will not allow.

The old fashioned knitted lace is again in vogue and many articles are beautifully trimmed with the same. Mrs. E. A. Kolbert has entered some beautiful specimens. A knitted lace night cap has created much amusement, as few have any idea of the use of the article.

Mrs. Amanda Wright has knit cotton socks upon exhibition which would be difficult to distinguish from machine work, so evenly is every stich placed.

A pair of woolen stockings knit of home-made double and twisted yarn, entered by Mrs. L. Y. Chase, are very fine.

Mrs. Sarah Condit also has a pair of socks (cotton), well worthy of the blue. Indeed, how and where can the judges stop with the blue ribbon?

Mrs. Allie White has a woolen comforter that some good looking gentleman will want to wear in the cold days coming.

Tidies knit, tidies crocheted, tidies netted and tidies embroidered—every shade and color—are represented. Where to begin is the reporter's puzzle, but the tidy entered by Miss Ann Fraser will certainly weigh the heaviest. Two pounds and a quarter of spool thread have been used and the lady worked eighteen months.

Mrs. Patsy Ann Smith, aged 74 years, mother of Mrs. S. F. Chadwick, enters three crochet tidies which deserve credit for the smoothness of the work, especially as the work is done without the use of spectacles.

A worsted tidy, in red and white wheels, crochet, edged with a heavy fringe corresponding in color, is beautiful, entered by Miss Myra Carr.

Miss Ada Cann, aged 10 years, has two full toilet sets, Java canvas, embroidered with worsted, that would compete well with the work entered by much older ladies. No [illegible] and Ada [illegible] dies, so that her work is simply upon exhibition.

Oregon is a land of plenty, consequently cornucopias form a distinguishing feature in the grand display of needlework. Among the many, one in beads, by Miss Estella Owens, and another in chenille embroidery, by Mrs. N. J. Cook, rather carry off the palm.

Miss Hattie Clarke, although a typo, "sets up" the sparkling beads in several handsome articles.

Some people will not lose their place, judging by the many handsome book marks upon exhibition.

PATCHWORK

Some one—a gentleman, of course,—wondered if the ladies would always persist in cutting cloth up for the pleasure of sewing it together again. They certainly have done a great amount of "patching" this year.

Miss Eva White, six years old, has two quilts that are marvels in the neatness and number of tiny stitches found upon them.

Mrs. Sarah McCubbins has a calico quilt, "nine patch," the patches of which are but half an inch square. All the patience of the world is not yet exhausted.

The "log cabins" are still fashionable and well represented. All are built with so much taste that although a pioneer the reporter can not decide that one is better than another.

Mrs. Wann's sample of quilting, hand work, is ahead of anything else in that line.

At the fair, where everybody who can drives, gloves are in demand, and in company with Mr. DuBois and Mr. Chandler, Mrs. Mart Bowers and Mrs. R. M. Robinson are highly recommended as being capable of producing the latest and best styles.

A gentleman's dressing gown was found this morning under the many articles, that should have been noticed yesterday. Some fair complexioned gentleman to whom blue is becoming just call upon Mrs. Lizzie Adair and she can furnish one of the nicest articles of this class upon exhibition.

The greatest drawback to the display in the ladies' department, is the want of room. The articles are hung about three deep, much to the disgust of the competitors. The ladies urge the society to make better arrangements before next year, so that their work may be shown to full advantage.

Rag carpets of every hue and color are found among domestic manufactures. An old carpet weaver says that Mrs. Chichester should wear the laurel here.

Mr. DuBois occupies his usual stand, and makes a grand display of furs, but furs in August weather do not look very tempting.

Following the crowd to the right, Miss Nellie Meacham's oil paintings greet the eye. They do credit to so young an artist. On the left we find pictures of all descriptions, and prominent in the group is an Oriental painting by Miss A. Scott. Then an oil portrait by Mr. Parrott is said to be quite good by some judges. The artist claims to have done his work in three days, and to one who claims to have but little knowledge of painting, the thought suggests itself whether it would not be better to spend more time and improve the talent that the gentleman seems to possess.

The Business College sends an extensive display of penmanship, all finely executed.

Buchtel & Stolte, of course, have fine pictures.

But the finest thing in this division is a piece of tapestry work, which is mistaken by all observers for a first class chromo until closely inspected. The scene is from the life of Christ. The group of human figures in the foreground, dressed in the ancient Hebrew costume, is made prominent by the drapery in the back. The blending of shades and colors is truly wonderful, when we consider that it is all the work of the needle instead of the brush. Mrs. Mary A. Robbins is the name borne upon the card.

Master Clyde Cooke has quite a pretty little painting of Mount Hood, taken from a pencil sketch and painted upon wood.

The best specimens of chromos fill this side. Zan Bros. fill the southwest corner of this room with a variety of articles.

THE SINGERS

Mrs. Owens enters two cages of birds, thirty two in each cage, and a twittering they all kept up.

The specimens in natural history finish this room, and not being a geologist, I am afraid to enter this class.

Women's Centennial Board for Oregon.

The women's centennial board of Oregon met in the committee room of the state agricultural society yesterday afternoon. The meeting being called to order Mrs. A. J. Duniway in the chair, Mrs. Victor was appointed secretary, and the business of the meeting was taken up. Committees were appointed for the several counties in the following order: Mrs. Laughery, of Yamhill; Mrs. E. L. Sanborne, of Clackamas; Mrs. M. M. Blaine, of Linn; Mrs. Lottie Ream, of Lane; Mrs. Major Brooks, of Benton; Miss Ellen Scott, of Washington; Mrs. E. Wilson, of Wasco; Miss Mary Rodney, of Multnomah; Mrs. A. F. Watson, of Douglas; Mrs. Inez E. Parker, of Clatsop; Mrs. Conyers, of Columbia; Mrs. N. Y. Johnson, of Coos; Curry to be supplied; Mrs. B. F. Dowell, of Jackson; Mrs. Ivan D. Applegate, of Lake; Mrs. F. McComas, of Union; Grant to be supplied; Mrs. E. A. Corwin, of Tillamook; Mrs. S. A. Clark, of Marion.

Mrs. Laughery offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the members of the Ladies' State Centennial Board of Oregon be instructed to call meetings in their several counties and appoint sub committees to more effectually carry forward the object that this Board has in view—to present to the world the productions and arts of Oregon, as well as its antiquities—and to make reports of progress.

Mrs. Laughery and Mr. Dufur addressed the meeting in appropriate remarks, after which it was voted to adjourn until 2 P. M. Thursday.

SALEM, Oct. 14, 1875.

The adjourned meeting of the Woman's Centennial Board of Oregon met to-day at 2½ P. M. After reading of minutes of previous meeting, Mrs. Duniway being in the chair, made some suggestions to the ladies present as to the manner of distributing the work of the committee in gathering up such articles as it would be desirable to send to the great Centennial exhibition. Mr. Dufur followed with further suggestions on the same subject.

The meeting resolving itself into committee of the whole, a proposition was made by Mrs. S. A. Clarke to have the ladies present state what articles they had to present. Some contributions were offered and many more conditionally proposed.

Mr. Dufur laid considerable stress upon the preservation of the natural flowers, grasses, ferns, &c.

Mrs. Laughery gave a plan for working in her county by writing an appeal to the ladies of her county and publishing it in the county paper, asking them to meet at some central point and fix upon the kind and amount of work to be done by the sub-committee of Yamhill.

Mrs. Bruce recommended that this plan should be followed by the committees of all the other counties. The meeting approved the suggestion.

Mr. Dufur then reminded the committees to instruct contributors that all articles may be sent to his office in Portland free of charge on all the railroad and steamship lines, where they will be registered and receipted for, and duly returned to the owners after having been sent to the exhibition.

Mrs. Laughery offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the several papers throughout the state be requested to publish these minutes and lend their influence in aid of the work of this board.

The meeting then voted to adjourn sine die.

RECEIPTS—BASE BALL—ACCIDENT

The receipts of the society up to 7 o'clock this evening reached $18,000.

Napa will go with Foster and Twenty-One in the race to-morrow.

The Aldines, College Pioneers and the College Juniors have been entered to contest for the prizes for the champion base ball club. They will play at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Tom Bradley fell from the train this evening and was pretty badly hurt. Dr. McCurdy is attending him and reports him doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Phelps had a crowded house at Reed's last night. Mazeppa was placed on the stage to-night under the gaslight. Wilson's circus is on the grounds; it turned away people last night. Other shows are well patronized.

The gaming tables in town are largely patronized, and many flats are cleaned out, of course. Music and women attract the victims.

A DOUBLE MARRIAGE AND A DOUBLE FUNERAL.

ROSEVILLE, Pa., Sept. 28.—About five years ago William Russell, a farmer, living a few miles from this village, was left a widower with one child by the accidental death of his wife and a second child, they being thrown from a wagon by a runaway horse. The care of the farmer's house then devolved upon his daughter Harriet, aged 10 years. A girl named Mary Stokes, about the same age, was employed to aid in the household work. This girl had lived in the house about eighteen months, when Miss Russell discovered that her father was paying the attention of a lover to the girl, and that a close intimacy existed between them. Naturally shocked and indignant at this, the farmer's daughter dismissed the Stokes girl from her situation in the family. When Russel learned of this proceeding he immediately brought the girl back, and told his daughter she was to remain as long as she choose. The daughter thereupon left the house, and went to work at sewing in the neighborhood. The affair created great scandal in the rural social circles. Mary Stokes finally left Russell's and returned home. A few days afterward Miss Russel resumed her old position in her father's house, and the scandal soon ceased to be the subject of gossip.

MISS RUSSELL'S LOVER.

Living in this village was a highly respected young carpenter named Horton Hurst. His father owned a farm adjoining that of the Russells. Some years ago a difficulty arose between the two farmers about the proper location of a line fence. A long, bitter and expensive lawsuit followed. Farmer Hurst was finally successful in the suit and died two years ago. Russell hated the name of Hurst, and when, some three years since, he made the discovery that his daughter and the son of his old enemy had formed an attachment for each other and were actually engaged to be married, he threatened to disown Harriet if she did not at once renounce the idea of wedding young Hurst. She made the sacrifice in obedience to her parent. When she left home on account of the difference with her father and Mary Stokes she and her old lover met again, and renewed the vows that had been broken. This did not come to the ear of her father until some months after her return home. He then reiterated his displeasure at her choice and declared that she should never take the name of Hurst so long as he lived.

THE TWO WEDDINGS.

About three months ago Russell astounded his daughter by telling her that he intended to soon marry the girl Mary Stokes, and bring her back to the farm house. Harriet was firm in her opposition to the old man's folly, as she termed it, and assured him that when he brought his wife home he would find his daughter gone from the house, never to return.

The early part of last week Russell made known to his daughter that he was to be married on the following Friday. She made no reply, but went to work at once perfecting arrangements that had been pending between herself and Hurst for some weeks, in view of the marriage of her father. Friday morning the old farmer, first telling Harriet that he would return with his wife in the afternoon, drove away toward the home of Mary Stokes. The daughter placed the house in readiness for the return of her father and about noon started for Roseville. She left behind her, on the bureau in her room, the following letter, addressed to her father:

DEAR FATHER: I have always tried to be a dutiful daughter to you, but the act you intend to do to-day is more than I can submit to, as I have more than once told you. You choose a companion above me. I hope she will be as true to you as I have been, and that you will both be very happy. Do not think I am writing this with a light heart, although in leaving the home of my childhood, I go to find a home with one I have long loved, and whose wife I expect to be in a few hours. God bless you father, and good-by.

Your once loved daughter,
HATTIE.

Upon reaching this village Miss Russell was met by Horton Hurst. They proceeded to the house of Mrs. William Filley, a sister of Hurst's, and about 3 o'clock in the afternoon were married by the Rev. Mr. Young of the Methodist Church. Afterward they went in company with Mrs. Filley and a young gentleman, a friend of Hurst's, to the village tavern, where it had been arranged to take dinner. They were nearly through the repast, which had been very little like a wedding feast, when the door of the dining room was burst in, and farmer Russell, pale with rage, and a singular glitter in his eye, strode into the apartment. His daughter arose hastily and ran toward him with outstretched arms, but he threw her aside and sprang upon her husband.

THE TRAGEDY.

"You d—d scoundrel!" he exclaimed. "You set my daughter up to leave her home!"

He grasped Hurst by the throat, but the young man threw him off and commenced backing toward the door. Russell seized a knife from the table, and getting between Hurst and the door, attempted to stab the young man. Hurst received the thrust in his arm, and seeing that the old man was bent on murder, drew a revolver and warned him to stand back. Russell did not heed the warning, and continued to make deadly lunges with the knife. Hurst received many of these in the arm and shoulder. Hurst's sister escaped from the room during the melee, and the young man present seemed to be paralyzed with terror. At last, Hurst pushed his assailant back from him, and leveled the pistol at him. His wife at this instant sprang between the men, just as her husband's pistol was discharged. The ball entered her brain, and she fell to the floor and expired without saying a word. The report of the pistol brought a number of persons into the room. Hurst had fallen on his knees beside his wife's body, and after several times frantically appealing to her by name to look up and speak to him, he rose to his feet, and before a hand could be extended to prevent him, shot himself through the head, and he fell dead by the side of his wife. Russell seemed to be stricken dumb by the fearful scene, and was led from the room like a child.

As soon as the excitement that followed the news of the tragedy could be somewhat allayed, the bodies of the young married couple were removed to the residence of Mr. Filley, justice of the peace. Russell was arrested and held in $2,000 to await the action of the grand jury. A verdict that Mrs. Harriet R. Hurst met her death by the accidental discharge of a pistol, and that Horton Hurst came to his death by his own hand while temporarily insane, was rendered.

FRIDAY MORNING OCTOBER 15 1875

THE OHIO ELECTION

Though the Republican majority in Ohio is not so large as indicated by the first reports, there is little room to doubt that Hayes is elected. The meaning of this victory is that the people of the great State of Ohio are not ready to record their verdict in favor of repudiation of the public debt or debasement of the currency of the country. That issue absorbed all others and the decision though not by so large a majority as could have been desired is pronounced with sufficient emphasis to lay the spirit of shinplasterism, we trust, forever. The credit of the country and reputation of its citizenship, are saved. The forcing of a rag money platform on the National Convention of the Democratic party, to be held in a few months, would split the party wide open. Even without this result in Ohio, we can not believe it would be possible to unite the party on the dilutionists theories but now that the people have repudiated these theories it is morally certain there will be no rag money party in the field at the next Presidential election unless it be a mere fragmentary organization without the shadow of a chance for success. This is cause for general congratulation. We are glad to find that intelligent Democrats in this State many of whom we have met express unqualified satisfaction that the momentous question is practically settled in favor of an honest financial policy.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

In casting over the situation of business throughout the country there are some noticeable features that indicate a very encouraging degree of activity and a fair volume of commercial transactions during the fall and winter season. There is evidently a change for the better taking place, which, while it is not great nor does it give rise to any very extravagant anticipations, at the same time is sufficiently decided to carry with it some encouragement and confidence if too much is not expected of or from it.

All recoveries from prostration in business are necessarily slow. A man physically prostrated has to have time to recuperate and if he manages it without a relapse he is fortunate and what is true of the individual is true also of communities. It is encouraging, therefore, if healthful signs appear and if the improvement is steady its slowness only makes its sureness the more certain.

In the cities east of the Rocky mountains almost without exception, from the tone of the press, one would surmise a recuperating condition of the commercial body, and we can see no good reason to add that Portland is an exception to the rule. During the past week there have been evidences of an improvement in business matters that is truly encouraging, when considered with the fact that the great agricultural fair of the state has claimed such a large share of the [illegible] in creating activity the change is one that is welcomed as a harbinger of something still better. There is abundant room for the improvement and but little for a retrograde movement. Nor is there really much reason why business here or elsewhere should not revive. Throughout the country during the past two years there has been a persistent effort to economize, two years of cautious buying and selling, two years of trying to clear away the obstacles. In that period almost everywhere stocks of country dealers have been permitted to run down and supplies in retail or second hands are generally in a somewhat reduced state which ought to create a demand to satisfy which must give animation to trade affairs. Above all the farmers here have had three good years and though prices for their products have at times ruled low, compared with other discouraging circumstances in the commercial world, they have received a tolerably fair reward for their toil and are prosperous enough now to become larger buyers as well as sellers. Trade cannot languish long when the farming interest is brisk and prices of farm produce are remunerative.

THE CANDIDATES ON THE STUMP

Does Lane use Warren up in the debates which those gentlemen are having before the people? The papers that support the former declared in the outset of the campaign that his opponent would be no match for him on the stump. More recently, however this has been said of [illegible] vast superiority in debate [illegible] it has been found in their discussions, that though Mr Lane has for some years followed a profession which gives especial occasion for the exercise of what forensic talent a man may have he has not by any means risen to the position of an orator, and that though Mr Warren's pursuits have not led him into a field where eloquence of diction or finely rounded sentences were essential he is fully versed in the political history of the country and in his manner of dealing with the questions at issue between them succeeds quite as well as Lane in making himself understood by [illegible]. Except in the use of a few technical terms peculiar to the vocabulary of the professional lawyer Mr Lane has no advantage [illegible] in a [illegible] manner with men of common understanding, and in the [illegible] practical [illegible] important Mr Warren is [illegible] to speak with [illegible].

DESTRUCTION OF THE LAWRENCE

More than sixty years ago the good ship Lawrence which bore the flag of the Commodore Perry [illegible] sank beneath the waves of the lake near the town of Erie Pennsylvania. Her deck which was the scene of bravery [illegible] an officer as ever [illegible] to the American [illegible] with the [illegible] which his flag was waving [illegible] of battle and cheering them on to victory have all been buried for the life time of an old man but the hand of avarice has sought out the resting place of the old ship and raised her from the depths. Her timbers are to be made into walking sticks and hawked about the streets of Philadelphia at the coming Centennial. The inhabitants of Erie are not pleased with the work of those whom they call vandals for raising the hulk as they have been wont to point with some pride to the spot in front of their city where the honored relics rested beneath the waves.

The advocates of absolute free trade should remember that Britain France and Germany imposed almost a prohibitory duty on all goods manufactured in other countries and sold in their markets which they themselves could manufacture. Britain protected her iron interests until she could undersell Russia and Sweden and then she proclaimed free trade. The British tariff on bar iron from Russia and Sweden ranged from 1782 to 1826 from $13 50 to $32 per ton and during that time instead of iron increasing in price in Britain it decreased from $86 per ton to $51 50. This was the result of British protection of her iron interests. France has protected the manufacture of beet root sugar until she furnishes free trade England with excellent sugar at a price so low that British sugar refiners begin to groan under free trade and call for protection to save their refineries from a disastrous collapse.

A horrible detail of the storm at Indianola not made conspicuous by the telegraph was the robbing by Mexicans of the dead bodies washed ashore which were mutilated by the despoilers in their haste to possess themselves of the jewelry the victims to the disaster had worn. The brutes, actually hacked off the fingers hands and even ears from men and women for the sake of the rings and other ornaments upon them. None will feel sorry to know that when this became known, a number of the survivors of the storm went to the scene of action and killed five of the scoundrels whom they caught in flagrante delicto.

Within the last year thirty eight persons have died in Philadelphia leaving personal property beyond $100 000 as can be seen by the official records. William H Blanchard is put down at $1 728 048 J Edgar Thompson $1,00[illegible] Richard Norris at $896 345 Mary D Brown $608,836 and William Ames $571 667. The real estate of which no mention is made no doubt was much larger as the good people of Philadelphia are very much in the habit of investing extensively in that way.

Among the various articles on exhibition at the State Fair none attract more attention than the displays of products from the fruit drying establishments. The collection by the Salem and the Oregon City are truly wonderful. Such cured fruit and vegetables and meats were never seen before in Oregon and we doubt if they were ever seen in any other country. This new process is destined completely to revolutionize the business of curing fruits and vegetables and build up a very important industry.

Ex Senator Tipton of Nebraska was one of the Democratic stumpers in the Ohio campaign and Allen the candidate for governor will doubtless attribute his defeat in part to that cause.

"ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?"

Gilroy, March 1 1875

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. In an experience of three years with the Averill Chemical Paint more than one half the jobs have chalked peeled or cracked off notwithstanding the Paint was warranted to do neither and out of sixteen failures the "California Chemical Paint Company" have refused to furnish Paint to repaint but six of the sixteen. I refer to the following houses that have cracked peeled and chalked off in this place: James Carey H C Morey M D Thomas Darrough J J Bryant F H Farmer Frank Oldham J H Tickey G Woodward Thomas Rea P Ball D Whitney William Wilson J M Finfest F B Hitch cock J [illegible] Baxter Music Hall Catholic Church and I might mention many more.

J B RHINEHART Painter

2[illegible] Post St San Francisco Sept 11 1875

To [illegible] Chemical Paint Company: Gents [illegible] I had my house in Oakland painted with your paint. It was warranted to be good and satisfactory in every respect. I was obliged to have the third coat put on to make it look as if it had been really painted and even then I think one good coat of Lead Paint would have given the house a better appearance. I think you ought to make up to me the loss I sustained besides the annoyance I felt knowing that an inferior article had been put on when a No 1 article had been promised. Hoping to hear from you soon on the subject I remain,

Yours, resp'y DR HENRY KNOX

Gilroy Sept 4 1875

To whom it may concern: Feeling in various papers that the California Chemical Paint Company continue to deceive people by saying that the Averill Paint will neither peel crack nor chalk off I deem it my duty to say that my house, painted with the above named paint in the fall of 1873 failed in less than eighteen months after being painted by peeling cracking and chalking off in the worst manner imaginable. I also deem that the company have my name in their printed matter as reference this was done without my knowledge or consent.

F J BRYANT

Gilroy March 1875

To whom it may concern: My house painted with the Averill Chemical Paint in June 1871 failed in a little over one year after being painted by chalking peeling wasting and changing color some light color some dark. The California Chemical Paint Company are knowing to this and yet continue to deceive the public by saying that the Averill Paint will not peel crack nor chalk.

THOMAS DARROUGH

Gilroy Sept 4 1875

To whom it may concern: My house painted with the Averill Chemical Paint manufactured by the California Chemical Paint Company of San Francisco about two years ago failed in less than one year after it was painted by chalking off and changing color and I had a portion of it repainted.

J B TICKEY

Gilroy Sept 4 1875

To whom it may concern: I had my fence painted in the fall of 1874 with the Averill Chemical Paint which was represented not to chalk peel or crack off but it chalked off in three months after it was painted.

CITY.

Locating Pocket — An old gentleman named Nichols had his pockets picked yesterday morning at the fair grounds, and lost by the operation the modest little sum of $327 He had just purchased car tickets to come to Portland, and was in the act of getting aboard the train when the money was abstracted from his pocket. It was a great rush to secure seats, and while endeavoring to get through the jam, a young man rudely elbowed his way past Mr Nichols, and stood directly in his way, thus preventing him from going forward. The young man stood for a moment and then stepped one side, allowing Mr Nichols to pass on Some time after the train was in motion Mr Nichols had occasion to go to his pocket, and was astounded to find his purse missing. The loss of the money falls with peculiar hardship on Mr Nichols. He was on the way East to visit his old home in Indiana, and had with him his family—a wife and three daughters Fortunately the pickpocket did not leave him strapped, as he had among his baggage $280 While on the way down from Salem a collection was taken up among the passengers and the sum of $21 realized in a few minutes. Nichols is certain the young man who crowded ahead of him was the thief or an accomplice and his object in stopping him was to attract his attention and thus allow some one from behind to rifle his pocket. He paid no attention to the man, and could not identify him if he should meet him again We learn of another instance of a similar character wherein a gentleman of this city was relieved of about $70 in coin on Wednesday He was engaged in purchasing a ticket to enter the fair grounds when a sneak thief cut open his pocket and abstracted the purse and its contents. It was some time before the gentleman became aware of his loss

A Midnight Scene.—Quite an exciting scene transpired at one of the hotels of the city a few nights ago, which was not without ludicrous features. It was about that hour when, according to "Divine William graveyards yawn and disembodied spirits to glide forth upon the earth Deep and profound slumber had settled down over every soul about the hotel, except the night watchman, and all the inmates were locked in the strong embrace of the queen of the shadowy realm, or, in other words, were snoring in stentorious accents at the rate of 40 miles per minute on a shelled road Suddenly a loud and agonizing cry rang through the deserted halls, startling every mother son in the house Every person raised his weary cranium from the wool pillows and peered anxiously into the gloom, but saw darkness there and "nothing more." Another prolonged yell brought the sleepers from their downy (this part is a joke), couches and hustled them out into the hallways. Some one declared the hotel was on fire, which caused a general stampede to follow Our informant states upon his word of honor, (and he was an eyewitness of the scene extraordinary) that in the space of about 30 seconds more than a score of nether garments were to be seen fluttering around in the night wind as the wearers of the aforesaid garments, were flitting to and fro like so many specters Instead of being the cause of the commotion was found to be some inoffensive fellow, who, the victim of an incubus, had leaped from his bed and ran shouting into the hall, When the real cause was known, everybody joined in a hearty laugh, and sought with alacrity the seclusion of their rooms, gentlemen as well as ladies

Passengers Sailed.—The steamer Oriflamme sailed last evening at 4 o'clock for San Francisco, carrying hence the following passengers: E Woolverton, A Neeley, Mrs M Davis, Mrs Pohlman and daughter, D. D. Cole, Guy Fruit, Mrs M Loop, W H Cone, Mrs Robert Sarah B McFarland, and F J Allison, Mrs McSymon, N C Hawks, John T. Hurd, John W Cox, H C Bushe, and four children, Miss Alice Mills, R. Trewavar, Miss Eve Hilton, H. Bainbridge, Miss Helen and wife, X. Bussenger, and daughter Fred Dimmick, F. W Boicebrake Paul Williamson D H June, P. D'Arcy, Miss Alice Nills, Miss Burchard, S Kirk B Rutledge, Valkenburgh, Mrs E W Wallace, Bates, Mrs J daughter, J. J Hawson, Wells and 30 in steerage

The Inquest.—An inquest was held yesterday over the remains of the Chinawoman found with her throat cut, on Wednesday. A critical examination of the body was made by a physician, and also the room where the tragedy was enacted, was carefully examined. The physician gave it as his opinion that the wounds inflicted on the throat were not necessarily fatal. A blow had been dealt deceased above the eye with a bludgeon which the physician was sufficient to produce death. After striking the victim a blow, the murderer had inflicted the wounds, then made his escape from the house. After hearing all the evidence the jury found a verdict that deceased came to her death in a violent manner at the hands of a person unknown to the jurors. The inquest took place yesterday afternoon

Romantic Reunion.—A cotemporary con tains the following romantic episode "Years ago a marriage ceremony was performed between two people now residing in this city, but who, after living together some time, had some difficulty ending, and the wife journeyed to other lands, while the husband remained in this state working steadier at his bench, often wondering where his bride had gone to, and what were her surroundings. The lady wandered over the continent visiting many places and trying to enjoy life but, with out her partner, her pleasures were insipid, so a few weeks ago, she left her Eastern home, came to Frisco, thence to Portland where, after sundry mishaps she rejoined her husband, and joy again reigns supreme in their household"

Fell from the Train.—Thomas T Bradley one of the runners of the St Charles Hotel fell from the express train yesterday evening while it was on the way up some distance this side of the fair grounds, Of the extent of his injuries we are unable to write at present, from the fact that several conflicting rumors were in circulation soon after the accident. Early in the evening a dispatch was received from the grounds stating that Bradley had fallen from the train and was killed. Soon after two other telegrams were received, one of which was to the effect that he was "all right," while the other stated that he was injured, but not fatally Full particulars will be received to day

A Dangerous Place.—We desire to call the attention of the street commissioner to the condition of the sidewalk at the corner of First and Stark streets, in front of the Gem saloon. The timbers on which the planks rest have rotted away, leaving the sidewalk in a very unsafe condition When pedestrians chance to step on one end of these loose planks, the other end is certain to fly up and he is in danger of limb It is no exaggeration to state that the sidewalk is positively unsafe and before some person is crippled the property-owners should be compelled to make the needed repairs

Expected Home.—General Howard is expected to reach here on Saturday evening from Walla Walla, having completed his tour of inspection It is not known whether [illegible] of his personal staff who [illegible] fortunate as to fracture [illegible] a few days ago, will accompany the general to this city If his condition will admit at all of removal he will be [illegible] to this city, and it is exceedingly doubtful at [illegible] for the present

Nearly Run Over.—The other day a horse attached to a tree on Fourth street became frightened at an approaching train, jerked loose from its fastenings and ran across the street in close proximity to the cars but fortunately, the engineer perceived the animal and by slackening speed [illegible] The horse was captured and returned [illegible] to its owner

A square meal [illegible] and coffee can always be had at [illegible] Bates

THE KALAMA HOMICIDE

Our regular correspondent, writing from Kalama under date of the 13th inst furnishes the following additional particulars of the killing of Lewis Miller near that place on Tuesday afternoon

The coroner's jury empanneled by Justice Beall to inquire into the cause of the death of Lewis Miller began their labors this afternoon here A A Burke Jackson Powell Mrs Miller (wife of the deceased) and her daughter Miss Hamlin and Mr and Mrs Wicks were sworn as witnesses and gave evidence in the case.

It appears from all the evidence considered that Lewis Miller came home yesterday about noon, having with him Powell, and Mr and Mrs Wicks for the purpose of moving his family out of the house in which they were then residing in order to give possession of the premises to a man to whom they had been rented by Miller Mrs Miller objected to the removal of the household goods, when Miller took hold of her and threw her around She called to John Hugill to protect her It appears that a general affray now took place in which knives were discovered in the hands of three parties During the melee John Hugill took a gun from the hands of Mr A A Burke and discharged its contents at Miller killing him instantly

The jury met this morning Oct 14th at 9 A M pursuant to adjournment After a few minutes deliberation the following verdict was rendered "We the undersigned duly summoned empanneled and sworn by S W Beall Justice of the peace and acting coroner to serve as coroner's jury to inquire into the cause of the death of a person exhibited to us do find the same to be the body of Lewis Miller a resident of Cowlitz county Washington Territory aged about 56 years and that the aforesaid Lewis Miller came to his death from a wound inflicted by the contents of a shotgun discharged by the hand of one John Hugill while defending himself from an assault made upon him by the aforesaid Lewis Miller

HUGILL INTERVIEWED

I had an interview with John Hugill this morning (Thursday) when I learned the following facts in relation to his history He was born in Western Virginia about 25 miles from Parkersburg is 20 years old His parents removed to Southern Missouri in 1856 From thence he came in company with his mother to Washington Territory in 1870 While here Miller disgraced his (Hugill's) mother She returned to Missouri the same year and now, with the father of this young man resides in Jackson county Not having money to return to Missouri with his mother he remained in this country and has acquired a little property He was at Miller's and, unexpectedly to himself got into the trouble At this he sighed deeply and said "I never expected to be driven into this" and tears filled his eyes He talks freely, but will not give the motives fully that actuated him in the killing of Miller He is cheerful and confident that when he is tried by the courts he will be acquitted The witnesses Powell and Burke both said when before the jury that Hugill had always before been a peaceable and law abiding citizen Hugill was in Kalama this morning He gave himself up to the authorities on the evening of the 12th but has not been confined in jail

Eloped —East Portland enjoys a sensation On Wednesday evening a couple got up and dusted without the consent of daddy or mamma and escaped to the Washington territory side of the Columbia Two fond and loving hearts were made to palpitate as one with the assistance of an accommodating J P in no time at all The result of this little escapade is a couple made supremely happy, while an irate father in law and two stalwart brothers are searching industriously for an individual whose personal appearance exactly answers the description of the groom However we are inclined to believe that the young son in law has nine points of the law—the possession of the fair treasure—and he doesn't propose to capitulate either

A LEAK

I have laughed a great many times as I called the incident to mind It was in the years agone, when the common affairs of to day were very uncommon I was at work at the printing business, on Cornhill, and in my employ, was a man from Bangor Maine. During the summer a verdant specimen of the genus Yankee made his appearance in the office. He was a cousin of my Bangor journeyman, and fresh from the backwoods of the Pine-tree State—a tall lank sunburnt youth of two and twenty, genial, modest and good natured He answered to the name of Ichabod He had come to pay his cousin a visit and to see the sights

One day Ichabod was just emerging from Cornhill into Court street, when one of the new sprinkling carts came along—a huge cistern upon wheels—and as it reached the corner where Stoddard's building then stood the driver placed his foot upon the lever and opened his "sprinkler"

Ichabod had seen water drawn upon wheels before; He done it himself. On the farm at home was a hogshead, which could be set upon wheels in time of protracted drought for the purpose of bringing water from a distant pond

"Halloo! I say, you chap on that ere cart You're losin' yer water Yer hogshead's sprung aleak"

The man on the cart paid no attention

"Halloo! — Yeou! — Mister! — I say! halloo!"

Now the man on the cart looked around

"Jerewsalum! ole feller, your hogshead's sprung aleak, and yer water's all goin' to kingdom come!—don't ye see?"

The man on the cart placed his thumb to his nose, slightly waggling his fingers and then drove on with apparent unconcern

"Wal, I'll be darn'd!" exclaimed Ichabod "If that chap aint about the all-redest fool I ever did see! But I guess he'll open his eyes when he finds I told him the truth with [illegible] I don't care for his own interest [illegible]

THE LITTLE FOLKS

An Irish boy defined "nothing" as "a pair of footless stockings without legs"

The Shelby Ky, Republican says "The worst case of selfishness that we have ever been permitted to present to the public, emanated from a youth who complained because his mother put a bigger mustard plaster on his younger brother that she did on him, after they had partaken a little too freely of melons and hard apples"

I asked a little boy last evening "Have you called your grandma to tea?" "Yes When I went to call her she was asleep and I didn't wish to holloa at grandma, nor shake her so I kissed her cheek and that woke her very softly Then I ran into the hall and said pretty loud 'Grandma, tea's ready And she never knew what woke her up

A youngster being required to write a composition upon some portion of the human body selected that which unites the head to the body and expounded as follows "A throat is convenient to have especially to roosters and ministers The former eats corn and crows with it the latter preaches through his'n, and then ties it up This is pretty much all I can think of about necks

"Papa did you see those nice little guns down to the store?" asked a little six year old boy "Yes Harry, I saw them But I have so many children to feed and clothe that I cannot afford to buy you one" replied his father, seriously Little Harry glanced at the baby in the cradle with no loving expression on his face Finally he said "Well, papa I'll tell you what you can do, you can swap little Tommy for a gun"—Exchange

At a recent Sunday School anniversary the Superintendent presented memorial chromos and mottoes to those who had lost friends during the year He did not use the word dead When the services were over, his little seven year old son said "Papa, you ought to have given Mary Baker a motto" "Why my dear?" "Because little Mattie is always getting lost Mary has to run after her every day, and I'm sure she ought to have a chromo"

A little boy wanted to borrow his aunt's dog for a moment, and asked her to let him have a piece of string, so he could lead him "What are you going to do with him?" said the good lady The boy hesitated for a moment, and then said "Well you see a boy round the corner bet me his dog was a larger dog than yours" "Well" said the aunt, "suppose it turns out that his dog is the larger one?" "Then," said the nephew, "you lose your dog"

"Ain't you exprised to see me" said a five year old girl, as she tripped into my house in the midst of a rain storm "The rain fell all over me like it ran down through a strainer and I shook it off, but it wouldn't stay shooked I asked God to stop but there was a big thunder in the way and he could not hear me I underspect, and I most know he couldn't see me, 'cause a black cloud got over my head, as black as —anything! Nobody couldn't see little girls through black clouds I'm going to stay till the sun shines and then when I go home, God will look down and say, 'Why, there's Nettie!' She went to see her auntie right in the middle of the rain,' and I guess he'll be just as much exprised as you was"

Cucumber Pickles —A correspondent of the Detroit Tribune thinks she has about as good a recipe for these pickles as can be found "Pick and wash clean, and put the cucumbers into brine for twenty-four hours, take them out and put them into vinegar Continue this until you have enough to fill your jar, then take some new vinegar into which put a small piece of alum, a little sugar, and a small bag of cinnamon and cloves, boil in a brass kettle, have the pickles taken from the old vinegar and packed in a jar closely, and covered with peach leaves Pour on the hot vinegar and cover closely and place in a cool cellar They will be ready for the table in a few days, and will keep till cucumbers grow again"

A presiding elder from Maine—a keen humorous somewhat waggish man—was approached by a traveling companion as he seemed to be sound asleep in the railway car Brother D said the friend "wake up wake up! Do you know where you are?" "Yes, I know where I am" answered the elder "Where are you?" "Not far from New York" "How do you know?" "Because I have for the last hour felt like stealing something

The local money market is unmarked by any new or important features Exchange in San Francisco is in slightly better demand but the coin is fairly supplied The movement in monetary circles is rather brisker but the volume of transactions is still rather circumscribed Rates are firm but unchanged both at bank and on the street

While the theory of those who would inflate the national currency by issuing unlimited quantities of paper money is perhaps the most dangerous to the commercial interests of the country, there is a very large and respectable class of men, there is a very great objection to what might be called a counter theory in which it is claimed a great saving would be made by supplanting the bank circulation with legal tenders and the retirement of the bonds upon which the former is based At the first sight the argument seems a good one as it necessitates no inflation of volume in the currency and the bonds held to secure circulation amount to $375 000 000 on which the interest is about $20 000 000 The liquidation of the national banks however, would be a move which for its very magnitude would cause a great revolution in the commercial affairs of the country and one which could not but unsettle values for a long time It would of course require the simultaneous payment by the mercantile and manufacturing interests of the sum of $305 000 000 of bank loans a greater amount than the entire currency of the country This enforced ... of credit would be a severer strain on the interests of the country than any other financial policy ... possibly create The importance of bank credits in business transactions is not fully appreciated in the present political discussion The more important business transactions of the country are carried on without any material aid from the currency but by means of bank credits The expansion of these credits had far more to do with the creation of the flush times of 1870–73, than the volume of the currency had and the ... and sound ... the gravest evils caused in the fall of 1873 was the sudden contraction of bank credits produced by suspensions of insolvent banks and the united course of panic stricken but solvent bankers in calling in their loans It is not too much to say that the result of calling in at one time the whole or any considerable part of the national bank loans, would be the complete and irreparable ruin of nine-tenths of the business of the nation

Wheat Statistics.

Mr Alex Delmar formerly connected with the bureau of statistics, has made the following statistical position of the European wheat crop, based upon information which he says he has received from correspondents on the other side:

DEFICIENCY

		Ave Year	1875.
Great Britain	bush	95 000 000	107 000 000
France		18 000 000	5 000 000
Austro-Hungary		[illegible]
Gel. ...			10 000 000
Total deficit	bush	113 000 000	122 000 000

SURPLUS.

		Ave Year	1875
Russia in Europe	bush	60 000 000	60 000 000
Roumania		15 000 000	9 000 000
Total surplus		75 000 000	63 000 000
Net deficit		38 000 000	53 000 000

The estimates of the deficiency in Great Britain made by reliable parties in England is stated at 88 000 000 bushels, which is only ten per cent greater than her actual imports last year the amount from August 28 1874 to August 28 1875, being 80 000 000 bushels.

Miscellaneous.

The marine disasters for September in which the United States had an interest numbered twenty nine involving a loss exclusive of cargoes of $13 ,800 Of the whole number twenty were schooners and three were ships. Three of the vessels were burned one was sunk by collision three were foundered four were abandoned and eighteen were wrecked

During September there were forty one vessels fixed at the port of San Francisco of which twenty seven were for wheat two each for lumber and coal one each for flour and barley and eight for assorted cargoes These vessels represent some 45 000 tons of tonnage The tonnage business during the present month promises to be somewhat larger

At a convention of the Maltsters National Association at Buffalo September 1st, some interesting statistics were submitted, which give the acreage in ... barley in the United States in 1874 at 1 680 920 acres, the product 32,552,500 bushels and the value at $29 982 769 Of this the Pacific coast had 508 041 acres producing 812,272 000 bushels valued at $9 778 130 On the year ending June 30 1875 there were imported into the United States 6,254,773 bushels of barley worth $6 297 833 and 141 487 bushels of malt worth $163 770

The commissioner of internal revenue has given notice that documentary stamps of a denomination greater than two cents must be presented for redemption before the 1st proximo

The exports from Boston last week amounted to $31 ,374 The total exports thus far this year aggregate $24 618,277 against $21,247 700 for the corresponding period of 1874 a gain of $3 370 577.

Cable Telegrams of Oregon Wheat Prices

In view of the large export trade between Oregon and the United Kingdom in wheat we have for the benefit of our readers, made arrangements with Messrs Henry Jump & Sons one of the largest and oldest established wheat firms in Liverpool, to forward to the OREGONIAN every Thursday evening from Liverpool by cable the actual price at which our Oregon and California club wheat is being sold in the Liverpool market. This information our readers may depend upon as it is forwarded to us alone from our Liverpool correspondents, and comes to us direct the same day

The following is our first weekly cablegram

LIVERPOOL October 14 1875.
